These products will enhance firearms safety whether at home, at the shooting range or on the road.

A. A must for anyone who travels with a self-defense handgun, the Ravelin Group Safe Direction Academy Pad features a portable, patent-pending, ballistic-containment system consisting of a comparable NIJ-IIIa flexible ballistic material. It also contains a Ballistic-Seal energy-diffusing panel, which is designed to contain a single, unintentionally discharged pistol round—providing an effective backstop while loading, unloading or performing dry-fire practice. MSRP: $180; ravelingroup.com

B. Constructed from 20-gauge steel, the compact GunVault MicroVault XL Biometric MVB 1000 can be tucked beneath your bed, inside a briefcase, nightstand drawer or secured to a fixed object with an included cable, making it ideal for home or travel. Access is gained via a fingerprint scanner or with a key. The biometric reader can store up to 120 fingerprints. MSRP: $345.99; gunvault.com

C. The Franzen Security Products AR15 Magazine Lock is designed to occupy the magazine well, prohibiting access to unauthorized users. When in place, it captures the bolt in its rearward position, simultaneously locking the upper and lower receivers together and rendering the rifle inoperable. It includes a class-A-grade lock for additional security. MSRP: $34.95; franzent.com

D. Thanks to its 100-percent silicone construction, the bright-orange Chamber-View AR-15-Type Safety Block locks the bolt of “America’s Rifle” open with a physical barrier, demonstrating the clear action at a glance. Inserts are available for pump-action and semi-automatic shotguns, rifles, rimfire firearms and handguns chambered in 9 mm and .40 S&W. MSRP: $9.95; chamber-view.com
